

STEM

Careers

CAREERS

Are you interested in working for a dynamic and fast-paced organization? The California STEM Learning Network (CSLNet) is a non-profit entity created in 2010 to advance science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) education in California.

Should you be interested in opportunities with the California STEM Learning Network, resumes can be submitted to administrator@cslnet.org.

CSLNet is currently seeking to fill the role of Director of External Relations. Â This position is in charge of building public understanding and support for CSLNet's work to advance STEM in California and will manage fundraising, public affairs and strategic communications with external stakeholders and funders, facilitate the development of strategic partnerships with numerous stakeholder groups across the state and promote their efforts to work together to improve STEM teaching and learning. Â For the full job description, please click here.

The California STEM Learning Network is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Employment and program policies of the California STEM Learning Network are nondiscriminatory in regard to race, color, gender, religion, age, national origin, disability, veteran status or sexual orientation.